Fifth Passenger Escapes
With Lesser Injuries; Car Was Newly Bought and of High-Speed Type.

Three men were killed and two women were injured, one critically, at about 9:30 o'clock last night when the new sedan in which they were riding failed to make a curve on Pryor road, near an entrance to Lakewood park, overturning several times and crashing into a flat-car parked on a railroad crossing.

One of the dead was identified as Clarence L. Nichols, 36, of 446
Washington street, another was tentatively identified as Sam Beckham, 35, of a downtown hotel, and the other was unidentified.

One of the women was identified as Dorothy Cochran, 19, and the other young woman was identified as Alice or Angier Hembree.

The accident occurred, according to Patrolmen J. E. Roberts and G. G. Cannon, of Fulton county police, when the sedan, traveling south on Pryor road at high speed, failed to make the curve and turned over and over.

It skidded on its side and crashed into a flat-car of the Rubin & Cherry Shows, a carnival in winter quarters at the point, on a railroad siding. Impact embedded the vehicle in the flat-car.

Rescuers had difficulty in extricating the victims from the sedan, which was demolished.

An ambulance took the victims to Grady hospital. There Nichols and Beckham were pronounced dead on arrival. Their necks and arms had been broken.

Chasser, who suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest, died a short time after being admitted.

Woman May Die.
The unidentified woman was the most seriously injured of the two women passengers. She was admitted to the hospital in an unconscious condition, suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain.
She may die.

Miss Cochran suffered a fractured left leg and severe cuts and bruises of the face, head and body.

The unidentified young woman was described as a brunet.

Nichols recently returned to this city from a trip to Florida, and had just purchased the car, police learned.
He was apparently driving the car when the crash occurred.

Groom, Back Broken, Aids Injured Bride

Although suffering from a broken back, a young husband helped to lift his injured wife into an ambulance early yesterday morning after the car in which they were proceeding to Warm Springs on their honeymoon was crowded off the Roosevelt highway, near Palmetto, and crashed down a 20-foot embankment.

The bride couple, Vernon Towns, 26, of 220 Spring street, Decatur, and his 17-year-old bride of only a few hours, were admitted to Grady hospital.
The wife suffered a broken left hip and left arm. She is the former Miss Hattie Lee Brooks, of Decatur.

The couple had been married early Saturday night, and had started on the honeymoon journey after a reception.

Family of 7 Drowns In Overturned Car

SHIOCTON, Wis., March 14.—(AP)—
A mother and father and five children drowned tonight when their automobile missed a bridge, plunged 15 feet down an embankment and crashed through the ice of the Wolf river.

The victims, who, Sheriff John Lappen said, were identified by relatives, were Clarence Nichols, 35, and his wife,
Mrs. Nichols, 32; their children, Gilbert, 9; Elmer, 7; Selby, 4; Joan, 2, and Melvin, 10 months.

They were trapped when the car rested upside down on the bed of the river.

Uncle Remus Characters To Live at Techwood Homes

The famous characters of Joel Chandler Harris' "Uncle Remus" stories are being immortalized on canvas, and will have a permanent resting place in the kindergarten room at Techwood Homes. Earnest Neff, left, Cleveland artist, is showing C. F. Palmer, of the Techwood executive committee, one of his preliminary sketches of the "Tar Baby," "Brer Rabbit" and "Brer Fox."

F.D.R. SPENDS DAY
ON INCOME TAXES

President Foregoes Usual Swim to Calculate Just What He Owes to U. S.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 14.
(AP)—Like thousands of other citizens who put off the task until the 11th hour, President Roosevelt spent the third day of his vacation today working out the intricate problems of his income tax.

Foregoing his usual swim, he remained in the seclusion of his Pine Mountain cottage answering the scores of tax questions he usually leaves to John Sanderson, White House disbursing officer.

The return must be in the mails by midnight tomorrow night.

No Farm Profits.
The President not only must report his $75,000 salary, but the income from several properties, including his farm at Hyde Park, N. Y., and here.
Friends say, however, he has yet to earn a profit on either of the farms.

Making few engagements in an effort to get the fullest benefit from his vacation at the foundation here, the President saw only one caller over the week end—Governor E. D. Rivers, of Georgia.

Rivers spoke last night at a Columbus, Ga., "victory" dinner. The President sent a telephone greeting to the affair through his secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre.

He called for united action to for-

Shows Sketches of Paintings To Be Executed.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

The beloved characters of Joel Chandler Harris' famous "Uncle Remus" stories are being immortalized on canvas and will find a permanent place in this city.

Major characters of the famous series, which were first given to the world through columns of The Constitution, are being painted by a well-known Cleveland artist, Earnest Neff.

Mr. Neff visited this city Saturday, with five preliminary sketches of his work, which will hang eventually in the kindergarten room at the Techwood Homes.

Mainly responsible for Mr. Neff's commission to paint the creations of Harris were Cecil Jones, former Atlanta and Georgia Tech graduate, now of Washington, where he is director of art for the procurement department of the Treasury Department, and
C. F. Palmer, of the Techwood Homes executive committee.

After much correspondence between
Mr. Jones and Mr. Palmer, Admiral Christian Peoples, head of the procurement department, which has charge of art work in postoffice and other government buildings, was interested in the plan.

Mr. Neff, who has done much art work for the government, was assigned to paint the "Uncle Remus" series.

A painstaking scholar in addition to being a fine artist, Mr. Neff made a thorough study of the "Uncle Remus" stories and their famed creator.

He obtained information from Evelyn Harris, prominent Atlanta executive and son of Joel Chandler Harris.

SIX COURT PLANS
HINT COMPROMISE

Senate Judiciary Committee Turns to Second Week of Fervid Oratory.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—
A half dozen counter-proposals held indefinite promise today of bringing about a peace by compromise in Washington's wordy warfare over the Roosevelt court reorganization bill.

As the senate judiciary committee —itself closely divided on the White House program—turned to its second week of hearings, these alternative propositions were most talked of:

A constitutional amendment proposed by Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, to provide that two-thirds of the supreme court must concur in an act of congress is to be declared unconstitutional.

An amendment, offered jointly by Senators Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and Bone, Democrat, Washington, to give congress the power to reverse a supreme court decision invalidating an act of congress by a two-thirds vote of both houses.

A proposal by Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, that the court be increased mandatorily from nine to justices, accompanied by a constitutional amendment having future changes in the number of justices.

An amendment proposed by Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, to require the retirement of federal judges upon reaching 75 years of age.

A bill by Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, to require, by legislation, that at least seven of the nine justices concur in invalidating legislation.

An indefinite proposal, discussed on Capitol Hill, but not yet formally suggested by anyone, to provide an increase of two in the membership of the high court.

Mr. Roosevelt's bill, as it affects the supreme court, would empower him to appoint a new member for every incumbent who has passed the age of 70 and who does not retire voluntarily, with a maximum of 15 in the court's membership.

Up to now, the President has given no indication he favors any of the compromise proposals. He has said repeatedly that amendments would require too much time to meet the needs of the present situation.

The Norris proposal was one of the plans discarded as unconstitutional by the President in the process of elimination by which he decided upon the program he offered. Norris disagrees, but the President's advisors are of the opinion that the present court could declare the Norris bill invalid, with a consequent intensification of the present situation.

Pittman holds the opinion that if the court increase requested by the President could be accompanied by assurances that further future increases were barred, much opposition to the White House plan, based upon a belief that it sets a dangerous precedent, would disappear.

The judiciary committee will resume its hearings Tuesday, and devote the remainder of the week to testimony from the various interested parties.

Thousands Are Called To

Court With Chrysler Injunction Decision Set.

DETROIT, March 14.—(AP)—A cure for the wave of "sit-down" strikes in Michigan was considered today by Governor Frank Murphy, who appointed a 20-member civic commission to study his new formula.

Murphy indicated he was developing a comprehensive program—possibly with new labor legislation and conciliation machinery in the state's principal industrial areas—for peaceful adjudication of all employer-employee disputes.

The Governor held informal conferences during the day, while several thousand union "sit-downers" remained in possession of eight major Chrysler plants here and strikes continued in more than a score of other unrelated factories and stores in Michigan.

Chrysler Ruling Due Today.
Chrysler officials and the United Automobile Workers' Union awaited Circuit Judge Campbell's decision, scheduled to be announced tomorrow morning, on the company's petition for an injunction requiring strikers to evacuate the plants.

With 50,000 Chrysler employees idle, union leaders said they would assemble thousands of members at the court building for a demonstration.

During the injunction hearing Saturday, several thousand men marched around the building in a double circle line and more than a thousand others packed a corridor inside.

G. M. Pact Ratified.
The new automobile strike agreement approached a climax, final settlement of the General Motors strike issues was completed with formal signing of the pact by General Motors officials.

The document had been ratified early today by 200 union delegates from 20 cities and signed by U. A. W.

HITLER REQUESTS
PARIS PEACE PACT

France Feels Conditions
Would Void Her Other Treaties, Spike League.

PARIS, March 14.—(AP)—New promises by France and Germany not to go to war against each other were asked by Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler in his security pact note to London, authoritative sources said tonight.

French officials said "France is willing, but this is insufficient to meet the needs." They said they interpreted the purported proposal as a virtual scuttling of the League of Nations.

Such mutual promises were embodied in the old Locarno treaty which was nullified when German troops marched back into the Rhineland last year.

The gist of the German note, which officials said was almost identical with the Hitler call for a scheme whereby Britain and Italy would be substituted for the council of the League of Nations in designating an aggressor, they said.

This, they contended, would paralyze the French mutual assistance system and leave Premier Mussolini, of Italy, the final word since both Britain and Italy would have to agree on an aggressor in case of conflict.

Thus, officials pointed out, France's hands could be tied in the case of German-Polish, German-Czechoslovakian, or German-Russian conflict.

The reported plan carries no guarantee for Britain's security but asks that Britain guarantee security to Belgium, France and Germany. It was said to be milder regarding the Franco-Russian pact.

Officials predicted a five-power conference in London after the coronation in May. The powers participating in the conference, it was said, would be Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium.

Sea Storm Forces Amelia
To Delay Round-World Hop

Third of California-Honolulu Route Is Unsatisfactory for Flying—Pan-American Clipper Turned Back; Putnam Says Takeoff Field May Be Changed.

Picture in Page 3

OAKLAND, Cal., March 14.—(AP)— A storm covering nearly one-third of the 2,400 miles between here and Honolulu today forced Amelia Earhart to postpone her takeoff on a 27,000-mile world flight.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, said "definitely" there would be no takeoff today. The famous aviatrix had planned to hop at 5
p. m. (7 p. m. Atlanta time).

The storm turned back Pan-American Airway's Hawaii Clipper late last night, several hours after it had left Alameda for the islands. It returned to its base here.

Pan-American said the big plane encountered a low pressure area and strongly adverse winds. It carried two passengers and a crew of eight.
E. H. Bowie, weather bureau official, tonight reported conditions "wholly unsuitable" for flying in an area 600 miles directly on the air route to Hawaii.

He said winds of gale force and rain squalls were moving slowly eastward along the air route and expressed doubt Miss Earhart would be able to take off tomorrow.

Bowie said a low barometer reading of 29.20 was registered in the center of the affected area.

He said there was a slight possibility the plane might be transferred to Mills field, San Francisco, or to the air terminal at Burbank, near Los Angeles, for the takeoff.

Rains soaking recently filled-in ground have made the runway here somewhat rough and soft, and weather forecasters said more precipitation might be expected tonight or tomorrow.

Although construction crews worked on the field all night to put it in shape, Putnam said additional rainfall might make it unfit for the takeoff.

"But if we go to San Francisco or Burbank it will be only as a last resort," he said.

Putnam also announced the additional Investigation into charges of improper distribution of relief money in Fulton county will be continued, it was announced yesterday following a meeting of the special relief investigation committee.

Meanwhile, city council, at its meeting at 2 o'clock this afternoon, will be asked to release $12,500 of its remaining relief appropriation.

Alderman Ed Gilliam, chairman of the special committee, presided at the meeting yesterday morning, held at relief headquarters of the Fulton county department of welfare, 100 Pryor street.

Detailed reports of case workers were submitted, and of between 30 and 40 cases, only two were referred to the committee for further investigation.

The investigation will continue, however, Gilliam announced, with a meeting called for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the city hall.

Frank Miller, executive director of the Fulton county department of public welfare, auditors of the department and finance officers will attend the meeting, and records will be examined with a view to obtaining information on administrative costs.

At yesterday's meeting, Miller went over the methods of case investigations and explained all phases of this work.

The fund release the county will seek at today's council meeting represents half of the $25,000 budget for emergency relief for unemployed.

Atlanta Girls Seeking Film Fame
Initiated Into Art of Publicity

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—
Three southern debutantes here for a screen test for the movie version of "Gone With the Wind" agreed tonight they had been going with the wind all day.

From the time the girls, Louise Robert and Susan Falligant, of Atlanta, and Alicia Rhett, of Charleston, S. C., arrived about noon, until they retired tonight, they had little peace.

Nor did their chaperones.

Miss Robert, reticent about tomorrow's tryst at the Astoria studio of Selznick International Pictures, Inc., was voluble about how the three had been "on the go."

They arrived at noon and by 1 o'clock they were learning an important lesson in how to be movie stars, namely, publicity.

"We saw nothing but newspapermen and photographers all day," indicated Miss Robert, but pressed for details admitted that a trip to the hairdressers and costumers had been sandwiched in before dinner-time.

DRY LAW REPEAL, HOMESTEAD BILL
OCCUPY SPOTLIGHT

Administration Leaders Are Faced With Problem of Raising $10,000,000
Additional To Finance Program of State.

SENATE IS SLATED TO GET CITY BILLS

Vote on Atlanta Revenue Measures Is Believed Likely Tomorrow or Wednesday If Unopposed

Governor Rivers will enter the firing line today as the legislature grappling anew the admittedly experimental problem of financing his New Deal program.

Appearing before a joint senate and house session at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon, the Governor is expected —in his tax message—to sound the keynote for the week and a half remaining before the final gavel falls.

Briefly, as outlined by administration leaders, the tax problem resolves itself into finding some $10,000,000 in new money for social security, enlarged school and health functions and the absorption of rural mail routes into the state highway system.

Linked With Taxation.
Interwoven with taxes and appropriations are two other questions of prime interest:

1. The fate of the state's prohibition laws.

2. Relief of taxpayers through homestead exemptions.

In his last message to the assembly the Governor urged that the liquor question be disposed of promptly because of its revenue-raising feature. He neither advocated nor opposed repeal.

The homestead tax exemptions—which 37 of the 51 senators have proposed be set at $1,600—under administration sponsorship. A companion measure to permit $300 personal property tax exemptions has already passed the legislature and is to be submitted to the voters June 8.

Atlanta's revenue-raising program, or omnibus bill, which has already passed the house of representatives, will receive its first reading in the senate today. It will be referred to committee, and if not contested, may be voted on tomorrow or Wednesday.

The extraordinary nature of the problem is abundantly emphasized by the fact that should none of the tax measures get through, the normal functions of the state government are already provided for.

From another administration source —Chairman W. H. Key, of the appropriations committee of the house—has come the suggestion that the legislature deal with taxes and appropriations as an experimental basis.

He urged that the assembly enact some sort of a tax and appropriations program, and then, if it is necessary to come back for an extra session, make it in the late fall.

He said the only way to "do a finished job" would be "to wait until the fall."

Queen Marie Suffers Stroke of Paralysis

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 15.
(Monday).—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania was reported early today by a member of the royal household to be in a serious condition and partly paralyzed.

The court official said her illness started with an attack of influenza, which had become complicated by intestinal inflammation.

Two physicians were in constant attendance on the Dowager Queen, mother of King Carol II, and a Vienna specialist on ailments of the alimentary tract prepared to fly to Bucharest at dawn.

King Carol and Queen Mother Marie of Yugoslavia, daughter of the late King Carol II, were at her bedside most of the time, the court official said.

TREMENDOUS EFFORTS FOR SUPREMACY IN AIR DISCLOSED BY SURVEY

Europe, With 25,500 War Planes, May Acquire 20,000 More in '37.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The National Aeronautic Association, tracing details of "huge air armament" abroad, said today that European production this year will send a new swarm of battle planes into the air. A survey by William R. Enyart, NAA secretary, said a cross check indicated there are now 25,500 military aircraft in Europe. Production during 1937, he added, "may well reach the startling total of 20,000."

7,500 fighting planes; Germany 5,500; Italy, 5,000; France, 4,000; and England, 3,500.

NAVAL CONFERENCE SEEN IN APPOINTMENT

TOKYO, March 14.—(AP)—The appointment of Sir Robert Leslie Craig as ambassador to Japan may lead to a new effort by the chief naval powers to reach a limitation agreement, said leading Japanese newspapers tonight.

They recalled that Sir Robert had been for some years the London foreign office's outstanding authority on disarmament problems and had especially distinguished himself in the negotiations with Japan and the United States in the 1936 London naval talks.

NEGRO WOMAN, 123, DIES.

ABERDEEN, Miss., March 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Mims, Monroe county registrar of births and deaths, reported the death of "Aunt Bettie" Whitfield, negro, who claimed to be 123 years old. Mrs. Mims said a daughter, who says she is 103, lives in Aberdeen.

6 SWASTIKAS PAINTED ON GOTHAM SYNAGOG

Vandalism Follows N. Y. Mayor's Criticism of Hitler.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Six three-foot orange swastikas, neatly done with a stencil, were found early today painted on the front of a West 83d street synagogue, directly across Central Park from the German section of the city.

A general police order was issued immediately directing police in all precincts to keep close watch on synagogues to guard against vandalism.

Today's attack was the tenth directed against the 83d street house of worship in the last three years, according to Herbert Werner, superintendent of the building. Chalk, instead of paint, had been used previously.

The incident came on the eve of an anti-Nazi mass meeting to be held by the American Jewish congress and the Jewish labor committee in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, and General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, headed a long list of speakers who will give their views on Hitlerism.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, whose recent attack on Adolf Hitler was the initial incident leading to serious exchanges last week between the German and American governments and various repercussions in this city, is expected by some organizers of the meeting to make an unannounced appearance.

RIGHTS TO PROPERTY RESTORED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, March 14.—(AP)—The central executive committee by a brief decree today restored citizenship rights to thousands of persons previously deprived of their rights because of social position or ownership of property.

The act brings the laws into conformity with the new constitution, whereby, under Article 136, all citizens are guaranteed the right to vote.

'Man of Million Meals' Aroused By Plight of Presidential Palace

Mr. Wenzel Comes Forth With Eight Pounds of Recipes To Prevent Recurrence of White House Crisis—Salt Fish Four Days in a Row.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(UP)—Hurry like a latter-day Paul Revere to save his country, there appeared tonight G. L. Wenzel—"The man of a million meals"—who has dedicated his life to seeing that never again shall President Roosevelt have to eat salt fish four days in a row and not like it.

Mr. Wenzel's heart was touched by Washington dispatches relating how the President got fish for lunch four days running, and he was forced to make diplomatic representations to the White House cook through Mrs. Roosevelt, who tendered what is known in capital circles as her "good offices" for adjudication of a dispute between two friendly powers. Yes, Wenzel's heart was touched and, more, than that, his ingenuity was challenged.

Tonight triumph perched on the shoulders of "the man of a million meals" and he offered the President an eight-pound volume that seems to contain all there is to know and say about food. Let Mr. Wenzel speak for himself.

"There are 3,000 recipes in the book from which over 1,000,000 different balanced meals can be served. I estimate that there are enough different food combinations in the book so that by the time President Roosevelt's grandchild, Statie Doll, has grand-children of her own, no two meals exactly alike need ever be served."

Wenzel calls the eight-pound treatise "The American Menu Maker," and it is full of charts, graphs, tables, statistics and colored illustrations of crimson beef. It's practically fool-proof, and for the layman it opens up new vistas in the art of preparing and eating food.

Perhaps, for instance, you have always thought that the color of food was not important. Perish the thought, Wenzel says it's vital. Horrible example: Serving buttered noodles and cauliflower together. Reason: "Buttered noodles and cauliflower are too much alike in color." Lovable combination: Fresh spinach and red cabbage. Reason: The contrast in red and green "makes the dish more attractive."

FARMERS SELLING UNPLANTED LINT

Dixie Growers Tempted by 7-Year High Price of 14-1.3 Cents.

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(AP)—Tempted by the highest prices in seven years—nearly 14-1.3 cents a pound—Dixie cotton planters are protecting their yet unplanted crop by selling part or all of it months in advance.

The current upward swing, pushed along by heavy world consumption and purportedly aided by a Houston (Texas) concern's "squeeze," otherwise is a boon only to the Commodity Credit Corporation by reducing its loss on 12-cent loan cotton. The 3,000,000 bales of February 1 is expected to be halved by April 1.

Census Bureau figures today revealed February consumption of 664,439 bales, or 148,500 over the month of year ago. The bureau reported February exports 56,800 bales over February, 1936, and estimates of the acreage increase this year run as high as 15 per cent.

Traders have expressed confidence that if 14-cent cotton passes into the May position Tuesday and Wednesday without a break, the gain will be sustained into the fall.

HEARING RESUMED

Santee-Cooper Development Comes Up Today.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 14.—(AP)—Hearings in the suit of three utility companies to restrain permanently the PWA from financing the proposed $37,500,000 Santee-Cooper development will be resumed tomorrow in federal court here before Judge J. Lyles Glenn.

The Carolina Power & Light Company, the Broad River Power Company and the South Carolina Power Company sought last week to show that the coming of the proposed Santee-Cooper power plant would irreparably injure the companies.

Attorneys for the PWA and the South Carolina public service authority intimated in testimony that by the time the proposed development could begin operation there might be sufficient users to require power from the Santee-Cooper plant without loss of customers to existing companies operating in the coastal area of South Carolina.

17 DISCHARGED SAILORS PLAN APPEAL TO CRAFT

BOSTON, March 14.—(AP)—Seventeen discharged members of the British freighter Linaria's crew today sailed aboard the Samaria for Liverpool, declaring they would carry their fight for reinstatement to the rank and file of British seamen.

They were discharged a week ago at the end of a 10-day "stay-in" strike they called in refusing to transport a cargo of nitrates to Spain. They contended the nitrates would be used for war materials.

FORD MOTOR OFFICIAL ROBBED OF $300 CASH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Police said today A. M. Wibel, director of purchases for the Ford Motor Co., Detroit, reported he was robbed of $300 cash and valuable papers by an armed bandit late Saturday night.

Wibel said the holdup occurred as he and his wife were returning to their hotel after making a few purchases at a nearby drug store. The bandit approached them from the rear as they walked and at the point of a pistol forced them to turn down a side street.

SENATE PROBES TURN TO GOODYEAR PLANTS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The senate civil liberties committee announced today it would resume hearings Wednesday with an inquiry into recent labor disputes in Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company plants.

Investigators, who have conducted a prolonged study of strike breaking and labor espionage, said they would summon witnesses from Goodyear plants in Akron, Ohio, and Gadsden, Ala. Names of the persons subpoenaed were not disclosed.

POLICE RAIDS LAND
30 NEGROES IN JAIL

The police clean-up campaign swept more than 30 negroes into jail early yesterday morning, following raids on three houses where card games were in progress.

The raids were made by plainclothesmen at 400 Mangum street, 625 Fraser street, and a house in the northwest side section, known as "Death Valley."

Police also seized seven cases of assorted whisky, which had just been shipped here from Savannah, in a garage in the rear of 645 North Highland avenue, reports revealed.

And This Is Why
He Didn't Get Pint

"I want a pint of liquor," said the voice on the phone last night. "What kind will it be," was the reply.

"What kind you got?"

"Just make your preference."

"Say, that's swell service. I'll take."

"What's the address?"

"North avenue."

And all the time he didn't know he had police headquarters by mistake. But then, that's all right, because it isn't against the law to TRY to get a pint.

REDS CLAIM CAPTURE OF 90 ITALIANS IN ROUT

50,000 Romans Reported Concentrated on Guadalajara Battle Front.

MADRID, March 14.—(AP)—Spanish government accounts of its victory at Trujillo on the Guadalajara front said tonight 90 additional Italian officers and soldiers had been captured in what was described as almost a rout of insurgents.

The Italians, official reports said, included a lieutenant colonel, a major, and a lieutenant. Most of the prisoners were said to have been found hiding in basements.

On official account said that the Italian prisoners, when questioned, said six Italian divisions, or approximately 50,000 men, were concentrated on the Guadalajara front. One of those divisions was reported to have participated in the recent battle of Malaga, captured by the insurgent forces of General Francisco Franco.

The Spanish government charged in a broadcast tonight that 100,000 Italian soldiers are in Spain. The announcer alleged that probably six Italian divisions were operating on the Guadalajara front.

General Jose Miaja, government commander in central Spain, reported the Madrid front as quiet this morning.

The government forces under General Miaja recovering from the first shock of the enemy offensive and reinforced by crack units from the Madrid front, turned the tide of battle decisively.

The town at which this latest major assault on Madrid's defenses was checked is 15 miles northeast of Guadalajara and 44 miles northeast of the capital.

Government soldiers swept into Trujillo.

Two ALABAMA BOYS ARE KILLED IN CRASH

PELL CITY, Ala., March 14.—(AP)—Two young boys were killed near here yesterday when a bus crashed into the wagon in which they were riding.

The victims were Charles Polk, 13, and Charles Mitchell, 10, both of Pell City.

Coroner W. S. Williamson said he ordered Dewitt Hare, bus driver, held on second-degree manslaughter charges after investigating the accident. Williamson said Hare's bus was loaded with negroes and bound for Birmingham.

PRESIDENT OF HARVARD SCORES COURT PLANS AS 'EXTREME DANGER'

Conant Sympathizes With Objectives But Deplores Proposed Method.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 14.—(AP)—President James Bryant Conant, of Harvard University, tonight called proposed methods for changing the supreme court "dangerous in the extreme."

In an open letter to Senators David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, the Harvard president asserted, "If the supreme court is altered without seeking the opinion of the people, I do not believe the alteration will be 'satisfactory to the conscience of the community.' Unless this national conscience is satisfied, I fear the gravest consequences."

"I am not one who believes the recent decisions of the supreme court confront the country with no serious problems," Dr. Conant said. "I believe they do."

Personally, I should wish to live under the present constitution as written, but as interpreted by the minority of the present court. Some measures should be devised to alter the existing situation. Even the proposal now before the senate, if cast as a constitutional amendment (thereby fixing the size of the court), might be defensible.

"My opposition to the President's proposal," he explained, "is based primarily on one point. The administration intends to bring about what seems to most laymen a constitutional change without a special appeal to the country—an appeal which might have been submitted to the voters a few months ago."

"Lawyers apparently agree that the measure is constitutional, but to a vast majority of those not versed in the subtleties of the law the procedure seems but a method of circumventing the traditional American principle of an independent court."

Arguments that an "emergency" exists "must be examined under the greatest care," Dr. Conant said. "Unless this is done, the country may proceed under the banner of emergency legislation down a road which leads to the abolition of Democratic government."

"I have heard no evidence presented which indicates it is necessary to settle this question of the supreme court before the time required for sub-

Amelia and Two of Her Aides on Round-World Flight

Here is the latest photograph of Amelia Earhart made at Oakland, Cal., as she paused in an inspection of her $80,000 "flying laboratory" with two advisers. At the right is Paul Mantz, technical adviser, and at the left is Captain Harry Manning, navigator, who will accompany the intrepid aviatrix to Darwin, Australia, on her projected 27,000-mile globe-girdling flight. The take-off scheduled yesterday was postponed due to ocean storms which covered a third of the California-Honolulu route.

mission of an amendment to the country.

"If the precedent is once established that a party in power can 'pack' the court, admittedly to affect decisions on the constitutionality of acts of congress, how long will it be before some administration will 'pack' the court to affect decisions on the issue of liberty?"

Governor Denies Ellis Considered

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 14.—The published rumor that Governor Rivers is considering Atlanta Police Captain G. Neal Ellis for the post of chief of the state highway patrol was emphatically denied by the Governor here today.

Governor Rivers, who is expected to sign the highway patrol bill this week, said he had not yet given any consideration to the personnel of the patrol and declared the "rumors" that he had Captain Ellis in mind as the head of the outfit were unfounded.

The Governor last night delivered the principal address at a Roosevelt victory dinner here and left early this afternoon for Warm Springs, where the President is taking a short vacation.

He said Mantz would act as relief pilot to Honolulu and leave the plane at that point; that Noonan would serve as relief navigator as far as Howland Island, 1,550 miles south of Honolulu and that Captain Harry Manning would continue with the plane to Darwin, Australia.

Miss Earhart spent the day perfecting arrangements for the flight.

and also studied the Harrisians of Dr. Thomas H. English, head of the English department at Emory University, an authority on Harris and "Uncle Remus" stories and owner of the best Harris collections in this country.

His detailed and complete studies took him to the "Wren's Nest," famous Harris home, where additional background material was obtained. Shown Mr. Neff's preliminary sketches, with the exception of a crayon drawing of "B'rrer Rabbit" and "B'rrer Fox," black and white sketches, Dr. English, Mr. Harris and Mr. Palmer were extremely enthusiastic.

The opinion was that Mr. Neff had caught the spirit of the "Uncle Remus" characters in a remarkably vivid way.

"My sincere opinion is that Atlanta will have, in these paintings, the best canvas interpretation of the 'Uncle Remus' tales yet executed," Mr. Palmer said.

The completed works, in oil, will be exhibited at the High Museum of Art, prior to finding their permanent home at Techwood, Mr. Palmer added, through the co-operation of Walter Hill, president of the museum, and Lewis Skidmore, executive director.

The paintings will be completed within a few weeks, it was said, and will depict "B'rrer Rabbit," the "Tar Baby," the "Terra-a," "B'rrer Fox" and other leading members of the "Uncle Remus" family.

RIVERS WILL SPEAK ABOUT TAXES TODAY

til we get a little experience on which to base our action."

Immediately before the house when it opens its session today is scheduled to be a report from a special committee dealing with a new bus and truck maintenance tax bill.

Cigarette Tax Tops Calendar. Increased cigar and cigarette taxes to the house calendar for the day.

Fifth place on the calendar is occupied by the unemployment-insurance tax bill—a measure designed to secure 90 per cent of the present federal unemployment insurance tax on pay rolls for the state. Proceeds would go entirely to paying and administering unemployment insurance for Georgia workers.

Proposed increases in the net income tax are ninth on the house calendar, while the liquor bill is 18th.

The liquor bill is scheduled to come up Wednesday or possibly earlier with debate limited to 1 1/2 hours to the side.

The senate, which is almost out of material to work on, is expected to give consideration to the homestead tax constitutional amendment during the day.

Another senate measure set for consideration, subject to change by the rules committee which is now in full charge of senate procedure, is one to permit railroads to run trucks as a matter of right between points on their right of way.

The controversial chain store tax bill—probably scheduled for amendment by the senate finance committee—may reach the senate floor early in the week.

"In Love" Says Elaine; Puts Off Divorce Plea

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—(AP)—Still "in love with" John Barrymore, Elaine Barrie said today she would postpone indefinitely her suit to divorce him.

"John asked me to put it off. I am not dropping the suit. I have just postponed it indefinitely," announced the girl who several months ago journeyed halfway across the continent in unsuccessful pursuit of the famous screen lover.

"That must indicate you are still fond of him," said a friend.

"Fond of him?" Elaine exclaimed. "I'm in love with him."

Citizens Indorse Sunday Beer Ban

Indorsement of the no-beer-sale-on-Sunday ordinance was voiced last night by citizens of the third ward at a meeting at 918 Marietta street.

T. C. Morris, former councilman of the old fifth ward, announced the group passed a resolution calling upon Mayor Hartsfield and Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby to enforce a strict ban on Sunday sales, with the exceptions of food and medicine.

GEORGE OSTRACIZES FRIENDS OF EDWARD

Smart Set Reconciled to Fact It Is Decidedly Unwelcome.

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Three months of a new reign have made it clear to Great Britain that what its critics termed the smart international set—the fashionable group denounced by the Archbishop of Canterbury—is no longer welcomed by the British court.

George VI has turned the clock back, at least socially, to the days of his father.

The smart set that surrounded Edward VIII during his brief reign, called by the archbishop "allies of the best instincts and traditions" of Britain, is becoming reconciled to the fact it no longer has access to the British court.

Instead of the internationalists, the same small circle that moved around the King and Queen when, as Duke and Duchess of York, they lived at 145 Piccadilly are now intimates of the empire's rulers. Most of the favored friends are members of English and Scottish noble families.

Several of the King's close friends are men of his father's generation, and court circles say that Baron Clive Wigram, who advised George V throughout his reign, is the most powerful figure at court today. Baron Wigram was recalled from retirement to act as permanent lord-in-waiting and principal adviser to the King.

NEW MONEY PROPOSAL SUBMITTED TO EXILE

VIENNA, March 14.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor's financial future through the archbishop "allies of the best instincts and traditions" of Britain, is becoming reconciled to the fact it no longer has access to the British court.

The former King Edward VIII received Sir Godfrey Thomas, formerly his private secretary and now serving King George VI in the same capacity. Sir Godfrey was believed to have submitted to the Duke new financial proposals from the parliamentary committee which is considering provisions for the royal family.

from council, to avert suffering among Atlanta's 10,320 unemployed.

Alderman Robert Carpenter is expected to oppose releasing the remaining city relief money, as he has bitterly fought distribution of relief by the Fulton welfare department.

It was the result of Carpenter's charges of mal-administration, the special investigating committee was named by Mayor Hartsfield.

Council today also consider a number of other matters, including the proposed charter amendment installing civil service for general employees of the city of Atlanta; petition of the Georgia Power Company to put in trolley buses on the East Point, Hapeville and College Park lines, and a proposed ordinance to ban sale of fireworks in the corporate city limits.

U. S. SEEKS TO SIMPLIFY INCOME TAX RETURNS

Officials Expect Collections To Total About $840,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—Treasury officials said today that the mistakes people make in filling Uncle Sam how much income tax they owe will serve as a guide toward simplifying the tax returns.

Waiting to count the dollars which flow into the federal till by the income tax deadline tomorrow night, officials said that this year's returns will be scrutinized carefully with a view to eliminating "unnecessary complexities."

If the forms can be made simpler, revenue authorities expressed the view that taxes may be paid earlier because most persons will be able to fill out their statements at home.

Officials said today that less than half of an estimated 6,000,000 returns have been filed. When all are in, the treasury expects collections to aggregate around $840,000,000, the highest March total since World War days.

Discussing taxation in general, the National Economy League said today that an "alarming increase" in governmental costs "may" throw our whole economic system out of adjustment.

The league said that taxes collected by federal, state and local governments in 1935 totaled $2,211,000,000, or $22.66 per capita. If the federal budget is balanced at the present expenditure level, it added, tax collections will aggregate $14,000,000,000, or $100 per capita.

SOUTHERN LAWYERS OPPOSE SCHEME. CHICAGO, March 14.—(AP)—The American Bar Association, analyzing the 16,132-to-2,563 vote of its members against "an increase in the number of justices of the supreme court," reported today the plan was disapproved in every state, the District of Columbia and the territories.

Ballots were mailed to 29,000 members and 19,136 returned them "properly authenticated" and prior to the closing of the polls.

The association announced it was conducting a poll among 126,000 lawyers who are not members.

The vote showed (against and for): Alabama 127 to 17; District of Columbia 573 to 137; Florida 262 to 92; Georgia 185 to 31; Louisiana 217 to 59; Mississippi 147 to 28; North Carolina 97 to 20; Tennessee 149 to 36, and Texas 442 to 83.

RUM IMPORTS UP

10,106,708 Gallons Reported for Seven Months.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The treasury reported today that distilled liquor imports totaled 12,800,400 gallons in January, compared with 2,408,150 gallons in December and 775,805 gallons in January, 1936.

For the first seven months of this fiscal year, imports totaled 10,106,708 gallons, compared with 5,388,850 gallons in the corresponding period a year ago.

January still wine imports were set at 212,826 gallons, compared with 449,061 gallons in December and 231,695 gallons in the same 1936 month. Sparkling wine imports totaled 36,398, 127,876 and 11,246 gallons, respectively.

Indians Hail Sun In Bok Shaft Dance

LAKE WALES, March 14.—(AP)—About 70 Seminole Indians enacted the dance of the rising sun for thousands of visitors gathered at the Bok singing tower today.

Chanting the ancient call to the tribe, the Seminoles climbed to the top of the structure.

"Honk-ke-kes" was the cry as the descendants of redskin warriors mounted the tower. They were led by Osceola, whose forbear was the great chief of that name.

The ceremony was based on the spring festival of the tribes celebrated before the coming of the white man. In it they gave thanks to the Great Spirit for returning the sun to them from its southern wanderings.

It was something of a sightseeing trip for the Indians, too. Few of them had been as high as the 205 feet marking the top of the singing tower.

officials after a debate session which lasted from noon Saturday to past midnight.

Governor Murphy, a peace-maker in the widespread General Motors strike, invited the 20 civic leaders to meet with him here Wednesday to formulate a "program of action acceptable to all elements" in labor disputes.

He also asked prosecutors and law enforcement officers of the state and four industrial counties—Wayne (Detroit), Genesee (Flint), Oakland (Pontiac), and Ingham (Mason)—to meet with him tomorrow at his Lansing office.

Public Order First. In his call for the Wednesday meeting, Murphy said:

"It is elementary and undebatable that whatever differences may exist between employers and employees, public order must be preserved and public authority respected."

The Governor, who called out the national guard to prevent bloodshed in the General Motors strike at Flint, said he would "appeal to the patriotism of these groups to maintain law and order."

His "law and order commission" includes Attorney General Raymond W. Starr; Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W.; James McElroy, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce; and Frank H. Bowen, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board.

FOR CHAIN STORE TAX
Editor Constitution: I once managed a chain store, and was responsible for everything in the store. I now run my own store, and the chain store is under me in everything. If the chain store were taxed, it would be fair and impartial to all. During the bank holiday the independent merchants had faith in our government and took both relief and personal checks. We need a chain store tax in our state.
JOE TANNENBAUM.
Atlanta, Ga., March 9, 1937.

COURT A NEEDED CHECK
Editor Constitution: The three branches of government, executive, legislative and judicial, are so far from the constitution revealing of equal importance and were to be separate and distinct. The framers of the constitution contemplated that the court would reverse acts of congress approved by the President. It was to be a check on congress and the executive. The President claims the supreme court has exceeded its authority under the constitution and that the government started out three horses, the executive, congress and the supreme court, and the two first named horses, in his opinion, performing all right, but the third not. In breaking horses, a good, steady, experienced horse is usually hitched with younger and inexperienced horses, to hold the young horses back.

The framers knew there would be young and impulsive executives and congressmen, and that they would need a steady influence, like the supreme court, to hold them in check. Appointing additional justices would not be wise, because, if every President whose laws are declared unconstitutional, should get around his difficulties in that way, we'd soon have more justices than we'd need or be willing to pay. The President should make his legislation square with the constitution as it is interpreted by the supreme court.

ADVOCATES CHAIN STORE TAX
Editor Constitution: Your editorial in this morning's Constitution about the proposed chain store tax is one that all the market which is being afforded the farmers for their merchandise would be lost should the chain stores go out of business. The consumers of the state will continue to buy the same amount of produce of all kinds, regardless of who sells it; and when the consumer buys it from a dealer, some dealer has to buy it from the farmer. One of the largest chains in Georgia established two large vegetable farms in Florida, from which tens of thousands of dollars' worth of vegetables come into the state of Georgia annually. I cannot swear these farms exist, but I accept it as being true, because it has been freely reported for more than a year and I have never seen or heard a denial. It is unthinkable that you would not be very familiar with the industrial and commercial history of the United States.

During the period from the World War until the present time, chain stores have made practically all of the

No charges were placed against the driver of the car, listed as Gene Bailey, of Red Oak.

NEGRO WATCHMAN IS SLAIN AT PLANT
Former Worker for Company Arrested by Police as Suspect.
The brutal slaying of a negro night watchman early yesterday morning at the Sherman Concrete Pipe Company, 1285 Sylvan road, is being investigated by detectives.

The night watchman, Adam McNeil, 40, of 148 Walnut street, was found at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning lying on the floor of the plant with his forehead broken by a terrific blow and his right eye knocked completely out. Paul Embanks, an employee of the plant, reported he found the negro dead when he entered the building at 6:30 o'clock. C. C. Minor, plant superintendent, told detectives he paid McNeil $22.50 Saturday night, but no money was found in his clothing yesterday morning. A heavy apron the negro had been wearing was torn off and a one-cent piece was found beneath it.

Detectives D. L. Taylor and Morgan Johnson arrested a negro suspect who was said to have owed McNeil money. The suspect, they said, formerly worked at the plant.

LEGALIZED GAMBLING PROTESTED BY PASTOR
Increased Criminality Would Result, Says Dr. Newton in Letter to Harris.

A letter scoring pending legislation aimed at legalizing slot machines, dog and horse races and other activities was sent yesterday by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, to Speaker Roy V. Harris, of the house of representatives.

The letter follows: "The letter notes that the house will address itself primarily to measures bearing upon revenue in the next few days, and we all realize the heavy responsibility upon you as speaker and upon the members of the house in finding sufficient sources of revenue to meet the demands of the tentative budget for the next two fiscal years.

"However urgent and pressing these budget demands may be, to respectfully urge that there are some things which are dearer than dollars and cents—accepted sanctities of childhood and womanhood and manhood—and these should not be jeopardized by compromise at any time nor under any circumstance.

"I refer to certain measures now pending before the house by which gambling would be legalized in a number of ways, and the sole argument brought forward for these iniquitous measures is the small amount of money which the state would realize by license fees, dog races, horse races, 30-day divorces, the open saloon, and others—all urged for the purpose of the money they will provide—are calculated to bring untold misery, immeasurable shame, and increasing criminality within our borders.

"One has but to visit centers where slot machines, dog races, horse races and other legalized gambling obtain to be convinced of the far-reaching harm to youth and to mature people alike.

"I understand that Jacksonville has voted to stop these devices of gambling, but not until the people had suffered much damage from their presence. Such agencies attract the highly trained crooks of the country to come to gamble, to steal, to drink and to become criminals.

"Our peace officers and courts have a hard enough time now to deal with the evils of organized crime. If parents have all they can cope with now in trying to rear their children to become good citizens. Our young people have enough temptation thrust upon them already. Surely no pressure for revenue can justify an increase of these circumstances which tend to destroy the sanctities of the home."

Awards Program of Constitution Praised by Members of Press Body

Public-Spirited Act of Major Clark Howell in Founding Better Government Drive Wins Universal Favor Among Editors and Publishers of Georgia.

The Atlanta Constitution and Major Clark Howell, its president and publisher, continued yesterday to receive the commendation of the Georgia Press Association for offering the Atlanta Constitution Progressive Government Awards. Several of the counties were reporting progress on programs already devised, and others were preparing them.

Following are a few of the recent press comments and news stories concerning the progress of programs in various counties of the state:

Katherine Krafka, editor of The Times, Milledgeville, calls on Baldwin county to adopt a progressive program in the following editorial entitled "Let's Get It, Too."

"The Times commends to the attention of Baldwin county's commissioners and its citizens in general the county Progressive Government Contest now being sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution.

"Counties all over Georgia are getting into the contest with enthusiasm and plan to win the $3,500 award. The most commendable projects in government and community betterment will bring to the county responsible for this important sum of money to be spent, possibly, on bettering counties.

"It is one of the most worthwhile projects sponsored in Georgia in years. Interest and enthusiasm has been manifested all over the state in consequence of its announcement. Counties have been challenging each other in plans for county improvement and better government in order that they may bring the award to their counties.

"Baldwin county has the finest possibilities of any county in the state. This is a good time for our citizens to get interested in their county and lend a hand to the bringing of this award home."

Editorial.
Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, official publication of organized labor in Atlanta, predicts success for the awards program in the current issue of the publication and praised Major Howell. The comment, carried in a column which Editor Jones conducts, is reprinted in part below:

"The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 progressive government award for 1937 has bestowed such state-wide activity that more than half of all the counties of the state are now actively engaged in the contest. This proposed award is not only endorsed by leading Georgians, including Senators George and Russell, and the delegation in congress, but by newspaper editors and officials in every walk of life. What is more encouraging is that the citizens themselves in the various counties are actually going after the award in a way that is truly prophetic of a renewed interest in better government. So intense and general has been the response that its success is guaranteed.

"What county will win the first award of $3,500 and what county will receive more than half of all the prizes of the contest, is not half so interesting as the increased interests of thousands of citizens and the results that that interest is bound to have regardless of the winners of the awards.

"Major Clark Howell and The Constitution cannot be too highly praised for the vision and spirit of this award.

The contribution will be much larger and more significant than the amount of money invested."

The Times-Journal, edited by C. M. Methvin, Eastman, Dodge county, reports a meeting at the city hall to arouse interest in Dodge's participation with a pretensions and winning program. Colonel E. E. Persons sponsored a dinner composed of Dodge county products.

T. A. Gregory, editor of the Easton Messenger, Putnam county, praises the sponsors in the awards program in the following excerpt from an editorial in which he lauds Putnam's entry into a progressive program to win:

"A word must be said of the sponsors: The Atlanta Constitution has always been a leader and great moral force in the progress and development of Georgia. Much of Georgia's greatness can be traced to the efforts of those giants who wrought and wielded under the banners of The Constitution.

"What names, what nobility is conjured up by a reading of their roster: John Temple Graves, Henry Grady, Joel Chandler Harris, Frank L. Stanton, the late Clark Howell, and, no less able, our fellow Georgian, a noble son of a noble father—Clark Howell Jr."

"Not the least among The Constitution's accomplishments will be this county progress prize award. Whether or not a county wins one of the awards, a stimulus toward progress and development has been given; this must make itself felt all over our state, and the benefits thereof will be felt for a long time to come. More power to The Atlanta Constitution."

The awards program also was endorsed at a meeting of the Putnam County Farm Board, according to the Messenger, and will co-operate with commissioners and citizens in the vigorous prosecution of a drive to win the first award.

Cherokee Advance.
The Cherokee Advance, Canton, Cherokee county, edited by J. P. Rudisill, carried the following editorial comment:

"The Atlanta Constitution's campaign for more efficient county governments in Georgia is arousing much interest all over the state. Regardless of how satisfactory some of the county governments are, this friendly rivalry will be instrumental in creating a better standard of executive initiative. In the long run, it is believed much good will result, especially to the taxpayers."

Times-Enterprise.
Editor E. R. Jerger, of the Weekly Times-Enterprise, Thomasville, Thomas county, makes the following editorial observation:

"The Atlanta Constitution is making efforts to interest the counties of Georgia in a constructive plan to prove of the greatest benefit to the public welfare but to accomplish these plans in a sane, sound, well-grounded manner so as not to become a handicap to the property owners and yet to educate, build up and revivify the processes of the counties to the point that they may secure those enlightening and progressive phases that in reality make a county or determine its growth.

"In the plans are processes of growth in the making, phases of rehabilitation that are productive of future good, stimulation of public participation in county affairs and a will to advance by those steps that have proved to be best adapted to this state. The plans will do good if it is even casually studied. The example of those counties which are entered in the contest for the large sum of direct return that is pledged will prove an inspiration to other counties and from them there may come good that will extend for generations and proceed on the way of civilizing and stimulating the types of activity among official groups that are sound and secure.

"Thomas county can well consider the present plan, study it in detail and endeavor, even if not actively entering the contest for the money, to accumulate the wisdom and find the direction that is essential to the proper form of growth. It means in plain words planning for the future, with the ideas and examples of many wise and sage executives and administrators in the state, part of us, confiding with no processes but working with the same problems and using the same avenues of growth that are available to each of us.

"Untold good will come of it in many more ways than the mere dollars that are offered and in that we sense the fine spirit and the unselfish purposes of Major Howell and his associates in behalf of a greater and a more useful Georgia."

The Dispatch.
Mrs. Charles E. Brown, editor of the Dispatch, Cordele, Crisp county, praises Major Howell with the following comment on the awards:

"Major Howell, the new editor of The Constitution, seems to be actuated by noble impulse in his efforts toward helping the counties of Georgia to build it into a greater and better state by each county vying with each other toward making it a better county. He may get make as great and as popular editor as his late lamented father, Clark Howell Sr."

Walton Papers.
Editor Ed A. Caldwell, of the Walton News, Monroe, and Editor Ernest Camp, of the Walton Tribune, report that the Social Civic Club has endorsed the awards program of The Constitution and that it has offered its services to Walton county in its drive to win first place. Colonel H. Cleon Cox, of Monroe, was the speaker who outlined the awards feature to the club meeting at the hotel at Social Circle. Ed L. Almond Jr., prominent Monroe businessman, also was present and aiding in presenting the matter.

A beautification program and establishment of a Baker county library at Newton, two of the major undertakings in Baker's drive for the first award already are in progress there, according to news dispatches from John H. Crouch, editor of the Baker County News.

Mrs. Robert Short, chairman of a special committee in charge of the beautification program, already has begun setting out large numbers of flowering plants and evergreens. The Newton Woman's Club has undertaken to execute the beautification portion of Baker's program.

Mrs. R. K. Hall, president of the Newton Woman's Club, announced that a county-wide library will be opened at the courthouse. Mrs. Jim Swann, of Newton, will be the librarian. "Gone With the Wind" will be one of the first purchases to be made, it was said.

152-VOLUME HISTORY OF WORLD WAR READY

Carnegie Endowment Project Has Been 13 Years in the Making.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—The completion of a work of epic proportions—a 152-volume "Social and Economic History of the World War"—was announced today by Dr. James T. Shotwell in behalf of his many collaborators.

The almost incredibly vast project, said Dr. Shotwell, director of the division of economics and history of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was begun in 1914 and among its authors and editors were 35 war-time cabinet members.

Within the covers of the great book, he said, were data which if read and understood would be a preventive of war, adding the "final lesson" of the last great conflict was that "no nation is safe as long as this technique of war is practiced by great nations... that modern war is as contagious as the plague."

More than 200,000 individual volumes of the series have been printed in the original languages in which they were written—English, Italian, French, German, Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, Czech and Hungarian. A series on Russia published in English would declare to have been written by persons formerly in high place in the Czarist government.

It was found impossible, said Dr. Shotwell, to make accurate measurements of war losses—in life and in economics, but, he added, accepting a common estimate of 10,000,000 dead and 2,500,000 missing, "we can get some idea of the vastness of the tragedy for all countries."

"The only bulwark for peace is co-operation through those institutions dedicated to that purpose, the League of Nations and the international labor organization."

FATHERHOOD NO CAUSE FOR BALDNESS

FACTORS such as inheritance, fatherhood, age, or hats have nothing to do with loss of hair. Fourteen local scalp disorders (which come within the scope of Thomas treatment) account for almost 90% of all cases of baldness.

Your problem, therefore, is to rid your scalp of the specific local disorder which is causing or has caused your loss of hair. To do this easily, surely, and rapidly, consult a Thomas expert. He recognizes all of the local scalp conditions which cause baldness and knows precisely how to overcome each of them. (You will not be accepted for treatment if your case does not come within the scope of Thomas methods.)

When you start Thomas treatment, your scalp worries end—dandruff disappears, scalp itches stop, and hair starts to grow on the thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination.

WASHINGTON DECLINES TO MAKE FIRST MOVE FOR ARMS LIMITATION

Administration Bottles Up House Resolutions for U. S. To Call Parley.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(UP)—Administration leaders, anxiously studying war-threatening conditions abroad, "sat tight" tonight on proposals that the United States call a new world peace or disarmament conference.

Officials who shape American foreign policy were said to be determined that this country shall not "stick its neck out" in what might be a hopeless gesture, although they might take the initiative in an arms limitation movement if there appeared a good chance of success.

Time Not Ripe.—Conviction that the time is not ripe for action apparently has put the damper on congressional moves to smoke out President Roosevelt on the issue.

Half a dozen resolutions to invite world powers for a conference are pending in the house. Leaders indicate they will remain bottled up in committee, at least until Roosevelt gives the go-ahead signal.

Mr. Roosevelt has declined to commit himself publicly on whether he is considering any new world peace moves.

House Democratic leaders beat down a spontaneous effort to attach a disarmament conference resolution to the naval appropriation bill several days ago with the warning that

Six Air Maids Fly Into Cupid's Arms

NEWARK, N. J., March 14.—(UP)—Dan Cupid's arrows flew thick and fast into the ranks of airline stewardesses in the last week and proved so effective that six maids of one company alone decided to give up the skyways for love.

Three of the half dozen resignations came from stewardesses based at Memphis, Tenn. Ann Clegg accepted the proposal of James O. Connor, station manager there; Alice Isaacs made her final flight between Memphis and Fort Worth, Texas, to marry Al Aldridge, Fort Worth station manager, and Ruth Osborn, who had the Newark-Memphis run, quit to wed Dr. Leo Harris, of the southern city.

It might prove embarrassing to the President.

Davis to Confer.—Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large and chief United States delegate to the existing general disarmament conference, will have an opportunity to feel out the situation in Europe when he goes to London next month to represent this country at the world sugar conference.

The State Department said it had not been decided whether Davis would attend a meeting of the disarmament conference steering committee at Geneva May 3. It is generally anticipated, however, that he will proceed to Geneva and later will discuss disarmament prospects informally in London and Paris.

Prevailing pessimism is based chiefly on belief that economic readjustment is necessary to relieve the strain on "have not" countries before military and naval rearmament can be curtailed.

Beer Is First Thought of Man, One of 8 Persons Taken From Burning Vessel, Silverlarch, in Middle of Pacific.

PEARL HARBOR, Honolulu, March 14.—(UP)—Eight persons removed from the British motorship Silverlarch during a fire in mid-Pacific arrived tonight on the U. S. S. Louisville, still carrying life jackets.

They brought with them stories of unexpected thrill which marked their round-the-world voyage aboard the British vessel.

Chatting gaily about their experiences, they said they were summoned from the breakfast tables aboard the Silverlarch Saturday morning and told to don life jackets as the first step toward leaving the vessel. The crew had been fighting a fire in No. 3 hold for three days.

After waiting 1 hour 45 minutes for the naval cruiser to arrive, the passengers were ferried across rough seas to the Louisville.

The large launch in which they were carried rocked and pitched in the waves slapping its sides.

In 40 minutes they were aboard the cruiser and on their way to Honolulu.

Clarence A. Dykstra To Accept Wisconsin University Presidency

CHICAGO, March 14.—(UP)—Clarence A. Dykstra, city manager of Cincinnati, said today he would accept the presidency of the University of Wisconsin. John H. Callahan, chairman of the university executive committee, said at the same time Dykstra's appointment would be recommended to the board of regents Thursday.

Dykstra conferred with Callahan and the other members of the executive committee—Harold Wilkie, president of the board of regents, and Clough Gates—throughout the morning at Dykstra's quarters in a downtown hotel.

Callahan said Dykstra agreed to a year-to-year contract at $15,000 annually, and signed a "memorandum" to that effect.

Dykstra's salary as city manager is $25,000 a year.

"I told these gentlemen," Dykstra said, "that if the trustees accept the recommendation and appoint me president, I shall accept and go at the earliest possible moment."

He said that he would have to adjust his affairs at Cincinnati and indicated that would require about six weeks. He said he had no contract as city manager.

Dykstra would succeed Glenn Frank, who was removed last January 7, after a hearing that attracted wide attention.

Huge Airliner Slated To Fly 40 Passengers

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—(UP)—A 40-passenger super-airliner, larger than the giant Clipper ships spanning the Pacific, is nearing completion at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica. It will carry nearly twice as many passengers as the largest transport now operating in America, 21.

Others, built to the same specifications, will enter regular service on five major transport lines next fall.

"It cost $1,000,000 to build this first super-airliner," President Donald Douglas said today. "On a production basis the new air giant will cost approximately $250,000."

BUCHAREST, March 14.—(UP)—Rumanian soldiers with fixed bayonets were posted in front of numerous Masonic lodges in Bucharest today while the government and the Rumanian Orthodox church joined forces to suppress Masonry.

The Orthodox synod, in an announcement, which charged the Masonic order with "anti-Christian and anti-government activities," denied Christian burial and other church services to active Masons.

The government, which previously decreed dissolution of Masonic organizations, stationed troops in front of the lodges, which, however, indicated a determination to continue functioning.

Senator Hints Complaint If Both Sides Aren't Getting Equal Treatment.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(UP)—Senator William H. King, Democrat, Utah, tonight revealed that he is making an inquiry into whether supporters and opponents of the judiciary reorganization plan are receiving equal and fair treatment from the radio companies.

King, an opponent of Mr. Roosevelt's proposals, said he simply was checking on reports and had not yet reached a conclusion.

"I have no doubt," the senator said, "but if I confirm these reports, I will make a public complaint."

King said that Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, had told him that he was cut off the air in the west before he concluded his recent speech in Chicago opposing the President's proposals.

The Montana senator said he did not have an opportunity to cover the entire field as he intended because the radio broadcasting companies cut him off.

JAPANESE AIR BASE NIPPED BY BRITAIN

English Financiers Circumvent Tokyo on Macao Project.

SHANGHAI, March 14.—(UP)—British financial circles asserted today that British intervention had blocked efforts of Japan to obtain an air base at Macao, Portuguese colony off the southeastern coast of China.

Macao lies only 40 miles southwest of the British crown colony of Hong Kong, and British authorities there disliking the prospect of Japan obtaining her long desired aviation foothold in southeastern Asia.

Britishers who had part in blocking the Japanese plans reported that Japanese interests had tried to get a long-term lease on a large tract of land at Macao for a landing field. They offered, these sources reported, a large rental, which the Macao administration, badly needing funds for public works, was disposed to accept.

The Hong Kong government, however, learning of this situation, quickly offered the Portuguese, through the British Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, the needed funds on easy terms. The Portuguese accepted.

CHINA SEES EVIDENCE JAPAN IS LIQUIDATING ADVENTURE IN CHAHAR

Secret Troop Withdrawals Viewed as End to Designs on Suiyuan.

KALGAN, CHAHAR PROVINCE, China, March 14.—(AP)—Evidence that the Japanese military is liquidating one chapter of its military adventures on Chinese territory was seen by Chinese authorities and foreign residents here today.

They believed proof was accumulating that the Japanese—who have declined to discuss the matter—are withdrawing from the northern and western portions of Chahar Province which have been under their domination the last two years.

Large Party Departs.
A large party of Japanese army men was known to have passed through Kalgan en route to Peiping. It was believed to have come from Changel, 30 miles north of here, which has been a center of Japanese army activities in this area.

(Peiping dispatches reported arrival there of about 100 mysterious Japanese, whose garb indicated they came from various "military missions" in Chahar. They were lodged in barracks of the Japanese embassy. Japanese officers refused to discuss them. The Japanese army always has denied that Japanese troops were in Chahar or that it was trying to dominate that province.)

Hands Off Suiyuan.
Kalgan authorities saw in the withdrawals abandonment, at least temporarily, of any designs on Suiyuan province, which adjoins Chahar on the west. High Chinese officials asserted Japanese army officers directed the attempt of Mongol and Manchukuo irregular forces to invade Suiyuan last year.

That invasion was beaten back by Chinese troops of Suiyuan province, loyal to the Chinese government. The decisive battle was fought at Pailingmiao, northeastern Suiyuan, the first week in December, and the invaders thrown back with heavy losses.

Reports from North Chahar indicated the Japanese now are withdrawing supplies to the eastward, probably to Bohonor, called the "backbone" of Manchukuo, where the Japanese army maintains a large "military mission."

Group Rules They Lost Jobs in Strike at Six Remington Rand Plants.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ordered Remington Rand Inc. today to take back 4,000 employees the board said had lost their jobs in a strike that started last May in six of the equipment company's plants.

After recounting in a 100-page decision, developments in the strike that the American Federation of Labor says still continues, the board said: "From thousands of pages of testimony in this proceeding, there may be distilled two very plain facts: The unwavering refusal of the respondent (Remington Rand) to bargain collectively with its employees and the cold, deliberate ruthlessness with which it fought the strike which its refusal to bargain had precipitated."

The board's decision followed closely an invitation from Secretary Perkins to James H. Rand Jr., company president, to meet her here Thursday to consider renewal of negotiations with an A. F. of L. union. A company official said Rand would be glad to talk with her.

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 14.—(AP)—Jail attaches said today Gilbert Crabtree, 45, WPA worker, had shown no inclination to appeal from a sentence of ten lashes given him on a charge of beating his ill wife, mother of six children.

Sheriff Kemp had indicated he would administer the lashing tomorrow if Crabtree decided not to appeal. The prisoner has eight more days to ask the circuit court to overrule Magistrate Paul M. Fletcher, who sentenced him Friday to receive the lashes and serve 90 days in the house of correction.

Sheriff Kemp, who used to be a coal miner, said if he was called upon to whip Crabtree, he expected to use the same technique he employed with mine mules.

Crabtree was arrested Wednesday after neighbors reported to police that they heard Mrs. Crabtree screaming. The officer making the arrest said he found both the woman's eyes blackened and she was bleeding from the mouth.

STATE PEACH CROP DAMAGED BY COLD

Horticulturist Estimates 50 Per Cent of Georgia Trees Have Suffered.

ATHENS, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—Elmo Raggsdale, horticulturist of the University of Georgia agricultural extension service, estimated today cold has damaged 50 per cent of the Georgia peach crop.

Raggsdale, returned from a tour of the peach belt, said he found indications in the main central belt of a 50 per cent crop for this year. He said further south, in the Fort Valley and Montezuma sections, cold damage was so heavy only small percentage of the normal crop is in prospect.

Conditions north of Athens, in orchards around Commerce and Cornelia, are better, Raggsdale said. He estimated damage at 15 per cent, which he described as "a normal damage."

The horticulturist said most damage in the north Georgia section apparently occurred in February freezes. He said most of the trees in the north Georgia orchards had not bloomed before the freezes.

Makers of 'Quakes' Find $200,000,000

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—(AP)—Men who make earthquakes to find oil will talk things over here this week.

It will be a get-together of those who saw hundreds of millions of dollars made last year in oil discoveries—the annual session of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

In California alone, they report, their explorations have resulted in discovery of more than $200,000,000 of new petroleum reserves last year. Many times that amount was located in other parts of the country.

The earthquake makers will illustrate the use of dynamite in the seismic methods of finding oil structure and view diagrams and models of seismicological equipment. Oil engineers used seismographs to determine the depth of various strata, including oil pools, by setting off dynamite charges, causing vibrations similar to earthquakes, and measuring them by seismographs. The man-made earthquake method has been highly successful in oil exploration work in California.

BLUE MOLD DAMAGES TOBACCO IN COLQUITT

MOULTREE, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—County Agent W. D. Hillis said today blue mold will cut the 1937 production of tobacco in the Colquitt area of south Georgia below the 1936 poundage.

Hillis said the spread of the plant disease, which wiped out 75 per cent of the 1932 tobacco crop, is creating a serious situation for farmers in this section.

Growers throughout the county, particularly in the southern portion, report their beds damaged above 50 per cent.

"Last season Colquitt county alone planted more than 6,000 acres of tobacco," Hillis said. "Less than two months ago our soil-conservation work sheets indicated acreage would be stepped up to about 7,000 acres. Now our farmers will be lucky if they plant 3,000 acres."

Ideal weather may reduce damage, Hillis said, but unfavorable conditions will increase the loss.

To-day after years of hard going cotton booms at $14\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ lb. ... prices rise and Georgia's red clay pays off. Sandy loam and rich red earth ... southern sun and long straight furrows ... cotton built an empire ... cotton is our king.

Rich's puts a star by the 144th anniversary of the cotton gin patent and produces a bumper crop of cotton for its 31st annual March 14th sale ... a one day sale of cotton fabrics unequalled in America.

RICH'S

YOUR FIGURE, SIR!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

ALCOHOL CALORIES ARE CUT-UP.

Alcohol calories misbehave to make you fatter or thinner in perverse ratio to your needs.

The most significant thing about alcohol is that it is rapidly converted into energy and burned in proportion to the amount present in the tissues. With food, activity determines the amount used, but with alcohol the calories are burned as soon as the tissues are saturated.

Overweight can begin with alcohol, for while these uncontrollable calories are being used, the food calories are diverted into storage. Very few men realize the fattening potentialities of alcohol.

You wouldn't think of tossing off three eggs as a picnic after a heavy dinner, but as far as energy goes a double whisky and soda is just about equal to three hard-boiled eggs. A jigger—three tablespoons—of whisky contains 100 calories, and anything approaching a convivial evening contributes more than a few hundred calories to your energy surplus. The more alcohol calories you consume, the more food calories are packed around your waistline.

Suppose that during the day you take 3,500 food calories which, if you are a sedentary worker, is several hundred in excess of your needs, since you burn about 16 calories per pound of body weight. Then, if during the evening you add another 300 or 400 calories in beverages other than Adam's ale, you will wind up with 800 to 1,000 calories too many—all of which conservatively make extra pounds at the rate of one a week.

Aside from the caloric content of alcohol, quantity is a factor. Large amounts of liquid, such as beer and ale, not only give from 225 to 230 calories per pint, but distend the stomach and increase food capacity. This defeats one of the first principles of successful reducing, which is to shrink the stomach and thereby lessen the appetite.

The paradoxical behavior of alcohol calories for the underweight lies in the fact that the thin man who drinks invariably does not eat as he should. If he does eat while drinking, he often loses his food. The digestive apparatus of the nervous underweight is none too good at best, and there is evidence that alcohol further interferes with and prostrates the proper digestion and assimilation of food. Also, when a large part of the caloric intake is derived from alcohol, a serious lack of vitamins develops and nervous symptoms appear, so that he does not get the rest he needs.

To insure vitamins and minerals along with your calories, Dr. Normal Joffe, of the Bellevue clinic, says to take milk as a chaser—no eight-ounce glass of milk for every ounce and a half of whisky. The milk delays absorption of the alcohol and prevents the nervous jitters.

There seems to be nothing so perverse as alcohol. Being a stimulant, it depletes vitality, and if you are Excess calories go to your waist, sir.

In all, there is little to be said for alcohol in either a gaining or reducing program.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

WEAK REBIDS IN THE RESPONDER'S SUIT.

A player should not bid a weak hand when he can safely pass the opening bid. The response in a long weak suit is made only when holding a void or singleton in partner's suit. Having made a weak suit take-out of this sort, responder should not rebid if he can safely pass the opener's second bid.

Holding:

♠ none ♥ 843 ♦ Q1086543 ♣ J65

Responder should take out an opening one spade bid with two diamonds. Now, if the opener bids two no trump, responder should rebid three diamonds, for his hand is worthless at no trump, but if the opener bids two hearts he should pass.

Usually the responder should not rebid any weak hand when the opener rebids his suit, for the opener may have a long suit of his own and be weak in the responder's suit. In such cases the contract will have been increased unnecessarily. With a seven-card suit and a void in a partner's suit, the rebid should be made; with only a six-card suit, partner's rebid should be passed.

TODAY'S HAND.

There is a great temptation in certain hands to shade the requirements for an opening two bid, if a player falls into this temptation he is not greatly to be censured. But it is excusable to make two bidding errors in the same hand, as South did in the one shown below.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH

♣ J 7

WEST

♠ A Q 7 3

SOUTH

♦ A 8

♣ K Q 10

The bidding:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 2♠ No trump Pass

3♠ Pass 4♠ No trump Pass

5♠ Pass Pass

South's hand contained only four plus honor tricks and had more than five losers. Thus, it did not conform to the specification for an opening two bid. North's holding technically warranted a positive response, since he had one-plus honor tricks, but the absence of any ace, North properly exercised the option of first bidding the negative two no trump.

Over South's rebid of hearts, however, North was stalling, for he was completely negative bid, and even four hearts would be entirely noncommittal. On the correct theory, therefore, that show of some strength at this stage could not be misleading, North made the nonconventional bid of four no trump. In my opinion, the choice was well founded. The trouble was that South did not take the proper inferences from North's two bids. He should have realized that after North's initial negative response, a slam was out of the question. The fact that North later showed some scattered strength did not alter the fact that he had no trump play in the suit. And if there were no slam in the hand, why jeopardize a game by reading the five level?

South's hand was almost as well suited to no trump play as it was to hearts, and certainly there was no reason to fear that 10 tricks could not be made. Moreover, there was the added danger that a five-heart bid might influence North to stretch a little further and bid six, for which South could tell there would be no play. While it is slightly desirable to play at the right suit, it is sometimes even more important to stay at the proper level!

On the opening lead of a club by West and a Diamond return by North, the five-heart contract went down to inglorious defeat.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct response to an opening two-spade bid with the following hand?

♠ 6 4 9 8 5 4 2 ♦ A Q J 5 4 3 7

Answer: Three no trump.

DEAD MAN IDENTIFIED AS FLORIDA RESIDENT

MARIANNA, Fla., March 14.—

(The body of a man found yesterday near the confluence of the Chattahoochee and Flint rivers near Donalsonville, Ga., definitely was identified as Lawrence Williams, Marianna, Sheriff W. L. Watford said tonight.)

Williams had been missing since February 13. Identification was made by R. H. Adams, brother-in-law of Williams, from a watch, ring and bill found on the body, the sheriff said.

There were no marks of violence found on the decomposed body and an inquest by Georgia authorities revealed death was caused by drowning. The body was found under driftwood by two fishermen 20 miles below Rainbridge, Ga., where Williams' car was found abandoned February 14.

Beauty According to YOU!!

A Well-Known Cologne in A Carved Plaster Flacon

By LILLIAN MAE.

(Poised by Olivia De Havilland.)

Since the day that Mother Eve introduced sin to all succeeding generations, by tasting the forbidden fruit, humanity has thrived to doing the best it can. Just a suggestion of discretion, even in the name of a perfume makes that article very appealing.

A well-known manufacturer of perfumes introduced sometime ago an odor—a spicy, exhilarating odor, I might add—and it gave a name which suggests daring, perhaps even evil. When colognes became all the rage, this same odor was made up in that product, and presented in an attractive round-bowl bottle with tall, slender neck.

The very word cologne suggests a revitalization physically and spiritually, and with a name, as the French would say, co-la-la. The cologne itself was just about perfect, so all that the manufacturer could do was to dress up the container.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents should send their questions to the Editor, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I married my husband with some misgivings because he had three high-spirited children and I wasn't sure I could make them happy or that they would let me be. If ever a woman went at a job with conscientious determination to succeed I did then. I tried to win them separately and together, I interceded with my husband for them when I thought him too hard on them. But whatever I did or didn't do I was met with stony resistance. The oldest girl is now 17, having dates (too many for her good, I fear) and she needs the counsel of a mother but she won't have it from me. Her father expects me to supervise her social life which I can hardly do when she doesn't confide in me. What on earth shall I do? I am at my wits end. STEPMOTHER.

ANSWER:

It is possible that in your zeal to fill the bill as mother to the children you have mothered them too much. You have been too aggressive, crowded them and tried to force their affection. Suppose you relax for a time. Withdraw from them a bit and let them make the advances to you.

I know a stepmother who was in much the same fix with a 20-year-old stepdaughter. She called the girl in one day and said to her, "Now I had wanted to be a real mother to you but you played so well that I can't stand to live together in this house. As it is we are all unhappy. Your father is the only one who is happy. Until you can't come to some understanding that will enable us to get the lump out of our throats and live contentedly, if you love us, I suggest you quick to see the reasonableness of this request and she replied that she knew she hadn't been generous, that she had been too harsh and that she hadn't been able to overcome her jealousy. So the two of them agreed that each had a hard road to play and that instead of hypocritical expressions of affection, just an agreement to live like a couple of sensible adults. You may be able to come to some understanding regarding your oldest daughter, for of course the younger ones will follow in her footsteps.

Perhaps this won't be an ideal relationship, but at least it will save embarrassment, and reduce irritation. For if nobody expects anything of anybody but common courtesy, nobody's feelings will be wounded.

The average stepmother has a hard row to weed and she doesn't get proper credit, either. The sympathy of the public is usually with stepchildren, rather than with the stepmother. The very term stepchild is synonymous with being pushed out in the cold. Yet anybody that has had many closeups on "step" situations knows that as often as otherwise, the children being jealous, suspicious and envious, put up a stone wall of resistance to their father's wife which she can't get over. Sometimes it is a result of their mother's warnings to them before she died. Only recently I heard a lady in hale and hearty health say to her daughter: "If your father outlives me, please place a new wife, don't you let her wear my jewelry or use my fine linen."

It was said in joke, but it carried weight and if that man should outlive his wife and bring in a stepmother, that daughter would make a hot time for her.

There are other ways to account for children's animosity to stepmothers. They frequently feel wrongly, of course, that number two has usurped their mother's place. Wrongly they imagine that their father's first and only duty is to them. They can't understand that this mother is not a desecration to his affection for their mother or them. Being children they have no conception of his need of companionship with one of his own age class. Then there is that natural sentimental revulsion, and it is physical, too, perhaps, at seeing their father stand in intimate relation to a woman who is a stranger to them. It is a hard position for everybody concerned and it is surprising that as many as do work it out satisfactorily. And it is a miracle that so many "steps" manage to establish affectionate and friendly relationships with one another.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

LOVELY PANEL HAS STRONG APPEAL

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

This Panel is Lovely Worked in Wool

Any young woman who has the common sense to be herself, not to assume artificial airs, nor to glorify in illusions, should make any man a good wife.

Of course, there are all sorts of sensible women who have their method of holding husbands. But a woman who keeps carrying on romance just as though she were not tied to a man would hold him.

The woman who hasn't legal claim to his love will constantly strive to earn his love. She doesn't neglect her part in trying to please him.

If a wife would take the same attitude, she would soon find he could not be happy without her.

But many wives make the mistake of relaxing all effort. They no longer try to be pleasant and agreeable and interesting. And they believe the man will just go on automatically loving them.

The particular qualities that hold men are an affectionate disposition, interest, and a neatness in personal appearance.

Gnawing criticism, a holier-than-thou attitude, promiscuous flirtation, and a loud vocabulary, combined with a lack of interest in the man, quickly destroy the illusion of love.

I believe that comradeship helps it to endure longer than all else. The

Three Musketeers' Form Nucleus For Growers in Basketball Story

By Sally Forth.

"THE THREE MUSKETEERS" of North Avenue Presbyterian School form the nucleus for this story today. They, too, abide by the theory of "one for all and all for one" and their prowess, co-operation and spirit, as members of the basketball team of the aforementioned school, recalls to Sally a very interesting story.

The trio includes Marjorie Armstrong, Martha Zoll and Barbara McGaughey and have played "forwards" on the basketball team for the past three years and in those three years, the girls no doubt had quite a bit to do with the record the team has piled up of no defeats in the three seasons. The three musketeers began school in the first grade. They studied together, they played dolls together, and when they began going in for sports they decided they would learn to play basketball, and some day would be members of the varsity team as forwards. They played as members of the seventh grade, and they were so enthusiastic and so determined to make the team, that in lieu of going to the movies in the afternoon, they practiced at an especially built court in the rear of Marjorie's parents' home, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, on Techwood drive.

When they entered the freshman class, they made the varsity team, which was unusual for first-year girls, and they had the former Josephine Walker, now Mrs. Lewis Parker, of Charleston, as coach, who was quite impressed by her "three freshman members." More or less paralleling the record of Marjorie, Martha and Barbara, is the guard position on the team by Betty Mather, Anne Mitchell and Helen Kleigh, who have been playing on the undefeated team for the past two years and coached by Dorothy Fugitt.

The basketball season was climaxed last Friday evening when the North Avenue Presbyterian Seminary team and with the 27-to-19 victory of the former institution, it was a grand and glorious ending for basketball days for "The Three Musketeers." It called for a big celebration which was in the form of a party given at the home of Marjorie Armstrong. The team assembled for "to the victor belong the spoils" and the guests lingered past bedtime for there were no more training rules to obey. "The Three Musketeers" are all members of the senior class and will be graduated in June from North Avenue Presbyterian school.

Atlanta was well represented recently in a column entitled, "Who Goes Where," in a well-known Detroit newspaper. The first item to catch Sally's eye concerned our famous Margaret Mitchell, and it is really quite interesting. It seems that Dr. William Lyons Phelps, that distinguished educator, is traveling to a tea given by prominent Detroiters.

His entrance into the drawing room was described thus: "The eminent professor rushed in waving a letter from Margaret Mitchell, author of 'Gone With the Wind.' She had heard him talk over the radio the day before and to say how much she enjoyed it and the great man was really thrilled."

The next paragraph was about a party at which the Edward Fishers, fastidious members of Detroit society were hosts. Then the columnist wrote about Judy King, who, as Sally told you about several days ago, is traveling to Honolulu with Mary Fisher, of Detroit. She said, "it was at this same nice party of the Fishers that we heard some interesting chat about Mary Fisher's trip to Honolulu. They said Saturday, you know, she and Judy King, of Atlanta. She and Judy, who by the way owns a string of thoroughbreds and is a great rider, have been out in Phoenix, Ariz., following marvelous trails and just for a rest they decided to dash off for Honolulu for a month or so."

It is a difficult place to leave—the hotel and the bay and the town. The air is soft there. And the orange trees and the palms lend it picturesqueness. And the leaping fish in the bay lend it allurements. And the winds that blow off the sea bring an intangible nostalgia for ships and the feel of a deck beneath one's feet. It is a difficult place to quit.

And if they do this they must sit for at least two hours on the harsh boards of a grandstand. And besides, there is before them the sight of perspiring men at work. And that sight is never very cheerful to one where the breezes are soft and the sun warm.

He looked at the Florida skies and sniffed. "Very poor sunlight," he said. "Very poor sun. Why, this is magnificent sun."

"Don't like it. And, anyhow, Florida doesn't seem to be such a whale of a state, if you ask me."

"The grass on the infield looks very nice."

"Not very nice. The grass doesn't grow so green here as I expected to find it."

"Where are you from, Mr. Arnerich?"

"I'm from California."

"Don't mention it to the Chamber of Commerce,"

So, there the matter rested.

"We lost two good men in Thomas and Williams," he said. "But I think we made up for them with Bill Beckman and Michaels."

"And most remarkable of all, we won two pennants without a left-hander on the pitching staff. They all said it couldn't be done and I never heard of it being done. But we managed it."

"But, let me tell you, I'd be a lot better satisfied with a left-hander out there. And I believe Michaels may be the man. And if Bill Beckman can win 17 with Knoxville we ought to let him enough runs to win 20 or more."

'Greenberg and Myself Are Fit'—Cochrane

GIVE US HURLING, WE'LL BE IN RACE, TIGER BOSS SAYS

Mickey Trying To Find Spot for Slugging Rudy York.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—(UP)—Question marks and "ifs" stud the hopes of the Detroit Tigers for a pennant comeback in the American league this year. To wit:

1. Can Hank Greenberg be counted on for a season's work at first base?

2. How many games can Mickey Cochrane catch?

3. Who is going to help Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges with the pitching?

Add to these the question of whether or not two veteran fly chasers, Leon (Goose) Goslin and Al Simmons can stand up under another season of major league campaigning and you have a fair idea of what Mickey Cochrane is thinking about these blazing Florida days.

"I'm not worried about Greenberg nor myself," said Cochrane today. "Give us some pitching and I believe we'll be up there battling for the pennant."

Greenberg seems to have answered Question No. 1 for himself. Out with a broken wrist since early last season, the big first sacker whose heavy hitting was a powerful factor in the victorious Tiger pennant marches of 1934 and 1935, appears as good as new.

RATTLE RAILINGS.
He is rattling the railings off the Lakeland fences with all his old-time gusto, and his throwing and fielding are every bit as good as before he was shelved by a liner from Jake Powell's bat in the 42nd game of the 1936 race.

Equally important to Detroit flag hopes is the matter of whether the Detroit Tigers can appear regularly. The Bengals just are not the same team without Mickey, whose dash, leadership and hitting were sadly missed when illness forced him to the sidelines after catching only 45 games last year.

Weighing 186, more than he has in years, Cochrane says he has entirely regained his health, he looks very fit. His nominated him as the team's first-string catcher and has even bet he'll wear the mask in at least 90 games this season.

Elden Auker, who teamed with Rowe and Bridges to twirl the Detroiters to their two pennants, hold the key to the somewhat dubious pitching situation.

If Auker comes back and has a good year after a decidedly off-color performance in 1936, when he turned in only 13 wins against 16 losses, Cochrane thinks maybe he can round out an effective staff from last year's holdovers augmented by one or two of the new men.

ONE BIG HEADACHE.
Otherwise, the Tiger flinging promise to be just one big, continuous headache.

Mickey has hopes of getting a starter and a relief hurler or so from among George Gifford from Beaumont; Robert Logan, who won a 1936 National League for Indianapolis; Pat McLaughlin, also from Beaumont; Clyde Hatter, who comes from Milwaukee with a record of 15 victories and only six defeats, and Paul Trout, another Indianapolis graduate, who seems to have about everything except control, including the ability to clown.

To add to his other worries, Cochrane is trying to find a way to utilize the hitting power of young Rudy York, a first-sacker, who hit a .334 clip at Milwaukee.

"I'm going to monkey around and try to get this fellow into the lineup somewhere," said Cochrane. "Maybe I'll give him a shot at first base."

If York fails to crash the inner defense, however, the Tiger boss will be satisfied to start with Greenberg at first. The dependable Charlie Geringer at second, Bill Rogell on short and Marvin Owen at third. A kid named Chester Williams from Beaumont, is putting up a battle for Rogell's job.

The outfield will see Goslin, beginning his 17th season as a major leaguer, and the fleet Gerald Walker, holding down two of the posts, with the third going either to Simmons, who is 19 pounds lighter and showing signs of a hitting comeback, or Chester Laabs, a promising youngster from Milwaukee. Ervin Fox and Joyner White, both holdovers, are on hand for reserve duty.

LEROY CHILDS WINS IN SHOOT

Fullerton, Newcomer, Wins Second Place Honors at West End.

By Clint Davis.

Dr. Leroy Childs won first place in the March medal shoot at the West End Gun Club yesterday. Childs, one of Atlanta's leading skeet shots, was victorious only after shooting off the silver medal, as first prize, with a newcomer among the top flight shooters.

S. W. Fullerton had always been regarded as a fine marksman, with plenty of style, but never considered dangerous in prize competition, because he always fires small-bore guns such as the .410 and 28 gauge.

It was a different story yesterday. Fullerton pulled out his 12-gauge double gun and blasted out a 25 straight and followed it with a neat 24 to tie Childs at 49, only to lose by a narrow margin in the shoot-off.

The silver medal, as first prize, was awarded Dr. Childs, while Fullerton received the bronze medal for second-place honors. This was his first prize win at the club.

High-gun honors for the day's program went to Buddy Jones, the pro, who posted a 50 straight. Other professional shooters taking part in the shoot included Abe Moore and Gene Gull.

Complete scores were as follows:
50-BIRD EVENT.
Buddy Jones 50; Dr. Leroy Childs 49; S. W. Fullerton 49; Clint Davis 48; Luther McDonald 48; Harry Harkins 47; James McMillan 46; E. A. Carter 36; Abe Moore 35; H. J. Fields 41; Gene Gull 41; R. K. F.D.R. Could Use Tarpon of Florida For Bait in Texas

GALVESTON, March 14.—(AP)—Fears expressed Friday by a Florida newspaper, the Fort Myers News-Press, that any tarpon it might provide for the President in anticipation of the visit of President Roosevelt here in April might "streak for home" when released found support in Galveston fishing circles today.

"Texas tarpons are so big and vicious that a Florida tarpon wouldn't last five minutes in local waters," said Connie Constable, veteran island angler, who offered to "plant" some tarpon for the President's bait.

I send you my song and my favorite ones, The sons that I love the best; I send them to you when I know they are due And ready to tackle the test; I send you my sons, but it isn't a gift, It's merely a loan, for when they have served out their day of "promotion and pay" They come to my arms again.

For they all come back to their mother, However the die is cast; They gather the cheers of the radiant years But the bush is their home at last.

I teach and enfold them, I make them and mold them, By fields of the east and west; And then at the time of their ball playing prime You take them away from my breast; You give them acclaim at the height of their fame, In the glow of their youth—but when they are broken and done and their glory is spun They come to my arms again.

For they all come back to their mother, However the die is cast; They gather the cheers of the radiant years, But they come to my arms at last.

They leave me to go where their glory's aglow In the gleam of a mighty renown, And their eyes see the light of a flag-winning fight In the swirl of a major league town; But speeding time cries to the Speakers and Tys As well as the others—and then they are back to the truth from the rare dreams of youth They come to my arms again.

For they all come back to their mother, However the die is cast; They gather the cheers of the radiant years, But they come to my arms at last.

LAWSON, LOWRY ENTER PIN MEET

Tidwell-Tyler Team Also To Compete in Constitution's Tourney.

Two new entries were filed late Saturday for the fifth annual Atlanta Constitution doubles tournament that will be bowled on the downtown alleys Saturday, March 27, on a handicap basis, with separate events for men and women.

Walter E. Lawson, who has achieved the most remarkable feat of having an average of 121 for all league and tournament games bowled this year, which includes three new high marks for local bowlers and an all-time southern record for five games, will be paired with W. F. (Carnera) Lowry, who has an average of 120. This pair will probably be the only team in the men's event bowling from the scratch mark, without the aid of a handicap.

Carl Tidwell and George Hiram Tyler, both of whom are top scoring pinners, added their names to the entry list and should prove to be one of the highest scoring teams in the contest.

No entry fee will be charged the bowlers, they pay only the cost of the five games to be rolled. The games may be bowled at either 2 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon or at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, at the bowlers' convenience.

Handicaps will be awarded to all teams on the two-thirds basis, with the men's scratch mark being 240 and the women's handicap from 204, for each doubles team.

Gold medals will be presented to both members of the winning team in each event and special high game prizes will be distributed to non-winners.

Last year's winners, Frazer Dillin and Kendell Martin, in the men's event, and Mrs. Estelle Warrington and Mrs. Luther Tidwell, in the women's division, were the first to file entries this season. One hundred and fifteen doubles teams bowled in this event last year to make it the largest one-day tournament to have been bowled in Atlanta; an even greater entry list is predicted for this year.

Get a bowling partner and enroll now for an afternoon or evening of real fun, with an opportunity to win the tournament title and valuable awards.

In the Norrians-J. L. C. game, Goller of the locals with eight points, and B. Browdy, of the visitors with 14, set the offensive pace.

Mopper, of Savannah, sank nine points in their victory over a punchless S. O. Z. quintet.

GEORGIA TRACK WEAKNESS LIES IN LONG RACES

Four Members of Present Squad Hold School's All-Time Records.

ATHENS, Ga., March 14.—The University of Georgia track squad, runner-up in the 1936 Southeastern conference meet, makes ready for another drive refreshed by the knowledge that six of the school's All-Time records now rest with four of its members.

Forrest (Spec) Towns and his Olympic mate, Bob Packard, account for four of the marks. The others are held by Burch Wilcox, broad jump artist, and Quinton Lumpkin, shot put artist. Last season brought all but Wilcox's record, which he set in 1934.

Followers of the squad predict that some of the present superlatives will be lowered by their keepers, and that others will be hung up before the end of this campaign.

Lack of enough material may make the distances a weak spot of the otherwise well-balanced team. Return of Shorter Rankin, in the one-half mile, after losing a year, is expected to strengthen this event. Captain Evan K. Major was the lone graduate from the long runs.

STRONG IN DASHES.
In the 100-yard dash, Towns, who grabbed the school's record of 0:07.7 in the Clemson meet last year, Harry Stevens and Bob Packard will compete. Tom Barell, New York city, is another candidate. Stevens, Barell and Packard will carry the burden in the 220. The latter holds this mark at 0:23.7 for Georgia.

Jack Robinson, Lawrenceville, has been working out for the 440 event. He has run in the dashes until this season. Joe Gillespie, Savannah; Lom McDaniel, Albany; and Buster Matthews, Atlanta, are others trying out. A bright season is forecast for Gillespie, who will compete in the 220 at Birmingham last spring. As back-upers he will have Jack Farren in the high, and Monk Arnold and Jones Yow, Tecum, in the low.

SET BY LUMPKIN.
The shot put mark was set down by Lumpkin in the Tech meet last season when he tossed the spheroid 47 feet 11.5 inches. Bill Baggett and others, set by Lumpkin in this event. Bob Salisbury, Atlanta, and Maurice Green, who was ineligible last season, have charge of the javelin. Green, Harry Harman and Farren are the discus tenders.

Wilcox, with a distance of 24 feet 4 inches, is generally conceded as the squad's best broad jumper. Arnold and Harman and possibly Packard are others. Harman, winner of the event at the conference meet, Towns and Arnold are in the high jump. Ed Rountree, Metter, Fred Davis, Calhoun and Safford are among the pole vaulters.

Trap Makes Mice Their Own Bait

CHICAGO, March 14.—(UP)—The nation's leading makers of better mouse traps foregathered here tonight to prepare for a five-day meeting of the National Inventors' Congress two weeks hence.

Albert G. Burns, president of the congress and styled "the nation's gadget chief," came from Oakland, Cal., to demand "if inventors won't build America—who will?"

While echo was answering "who?" Burns held forth on the latest development in mouse traps. "It's a lulu," he said. "It's kind of a perpetual motion mouse trap."

As the mouse enters the trap, he sets the trap for the next mouse. "Not only that, but the mouse is his own bait," attracted by the odor of cheese, he peeps inside. Inside is a conglomeration of mirrors. The mouse sees himself reflected a dozen times, is tricked into believing there are a dozen other mice in there, and enters confidently. Click! The next mouse sees 24 mice, and is twice as confident. After a while he has all the mice in the neighborhood.

DIVORCEE QUESTIONED IN DEATH OF WOMAN
CANTON, Ohio, March 14.—(AP)—County Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelme ordered a 43-year-old divorcee held for further questioning today after a night of inquiry and investigation, which, he said, failed to point to a solution of the shotgun slaying of Mrs. Rose Cable, 46, wife of a contractor.

Mrs. Cable, teacher of a Sunday school class and active in Canton social and church circles, was killed in her home Thursday night by a shotgun blast through a breakfast room window.

The divorcee was taken into custody at Steubenville, Ohio, last night. She returned recently from Florida, Barthelme said.

Mrs. Cable and her husband, Denver S. Cable, made a trip to Florida recently, returning February 22. Cable was in Cleveland at the time his wife was killed. He is in charge of a construction job there.

Barthelme and Police Chief Ira A. Mendenbaum questioned the divorcee for several hours today, but declined to say what, if any, information she gave them.

The prosecutor and Chief Mendenbaum spent most of the night going over all phases of the investigation with Cable and questioning neighbors and acquaintances.

COMATOSE KILLER IS FED BY NEEDLE
"Will To Die" Woman Enters 4th Day of Self-Induced "Sleep."

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—(AP)—The "will to die" of Helen Williams, convicted slayer of her husband, tonight started her toward the fourth day of a deep coma which physicians believe was self-induced to thwart a prison sentence.

Lying motionless on a jail hospital cot, the 31-year-old woman showed no indication of rousing from the deep sleep into which she drifted last Thursday night.

HIGH NOON

By RUBY M. AYRES

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Upon the shoulders of Heather Aston, now 34, has rested the burden of rearing six brothers and sisters, the youngest of whom, Bobbie, now nearly 17, had cost their mother her life. Heather had started her sacrifices when Bobbie was a year old, telling Bruce Logan, who was leaving England for South Africa, that she could not marry him and desert Caesar, as they affectionately called their pompous but ineffectual father, and "her children." Caesar has insufficient means to maintain Tagley, the home his father gave him as a wedding present, and spends his time writing a "book" which is never completed. Paul, the oldest brother, has married a wealthy woman who, after a year, alienated him from his family. Now he has just married the well-to-do little Miss Miller and left on his honeymoon, leaving Heather worn out by her efforts to make the wedding a success. Betty's romance recalls Bruce Logan vividly to her mind.

Her sister, Vilette, who has been traveling with a second-rate theatrical company in South Africa (Ponsonby is her stage name), writes to announce she is through with the stage, will be on her way home when the letter is received, and has met the man, who returning on the same steamer, is now GOING WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT III.
On the morning of Vilette's arrival, Heather asked at the breakfast table, "Is anyone coming with me to Waterloo?" There was a little silence until Bobbie blurted out, "Jepson's promised to take me for a joy ride." Then, when nobody else volunteered, he added resignedly, "But I'll go if you want me to."

Heather asked hurriedly, "Do you mean a joy ride in an aeroplane?" And when he nodded, she said anxiously, "Oh, Bobbie, I wish you wouldn't—Father?" she looked at Caesar appealingly.

"The future of England lies in the air," Caesar said grandly, and finishing his coffee he left the table.

There was a little silence when he had gone, till Heather said, "Well, I suppose I must go alone, that's all."

Bobbie scowled. "I said I'd go if you want me to, but I shan't get a chance to go up with Jepson again. He's going to Germany tomorrow."

"You go with Jepson—only for goodness sake, don't fall out of the plane or do anything silly. What's the time? A quarter to ten? ... I must fly."

At Waterloo, Heather stopped at a flower kiosk and bought some roses which she could not really afford. Flowers were always such a lovely welcome.

The heat train was not due when she reached the platform, and Heather stood aside, not far from the gates.

A thin little woman in a black coat spoke to her suddenly. "The train is late this morning; it is usually so very punctual."

Heather looked down at her and smiled. She was such a very little woman with intensely blue eyes that seemed startlingly young in her lined face. "Is it late?" she asked.

The little woman brushed a spot of dust from her coat. "I meet all the boat trains from South Africa, she said. "I never stay away for fear I should miss him."

Heather echoed her words uncertainly. "For fear you should miss him?"

The little woman nodded. "Yes—he went away just after the war. I expect that seems a long time ago to you, but to me it's only yesterday. I had to go away—his business was out there—but he's coming back some day to fetch me." The blue eyes clouded a little. "And I shall be waiting," she said, as if to herself. "I shan't fail him. He knows that. Are you waiting for your sweetheart?"

"No," Heather said.

"I'm glad it's not a sweetheart," the blue eyes were smiling again. "They stay away such a long time and yet every day I say to myself, 'That's one day nearer to the time he will come.' It's wonderful how it helps, even though I'm old now, and tired." Her voice sounded a little puzzled.

There was a feeling of tears in Heather's heart. Impulsively she said, "My name is Aston—Heather Aston—what is your name?"

"Molly Kent."

Such a girl's name; but it seemed oddly to suit those blue eyes, even while the woman face pathetically beamed. Suddenly the train was steaming into the station, and Molly Kent was lost in the crowd.

Heather looked for Vilette in vain. She waited a long time until only a few stragglers were left.

A girl clinging to a man's arm passed close to her. Heather stepped forward and touched her arm. "Please forgive me," she said shyly. "But—can you tell me if there was a Miss Aston?" she hurriedly corrected her. "Vilette Ponsonby on board the ship?"

The girl smiled. "Oh, yes—we were great friends. Do you know her?"

"I've come to meet her," Heather explained. "But she doesn't seem to be here."

"She went up from Southampton by motor car, with a friend ... we said good-bye to them." "Oh, I see," she said slowly, and then, "Thank you very much. Vilette is my sister," she added simply, as she turned away.

The girl looked after her dubiously. "She's a bit dowdy to Vilette's sister," she said to her companion. "Perhaps Vilette wasn't very anxious to induce her."

Heather felt a little dispirited as she retraced her steps. Couldn't Vilette have sent a wire? Or perhaps it had arrived after she left the house? She tried to believe that what had happened, while all the time she knew Vilette's carelessness and lack of consideration in little matters.

After a warm and stuffy train trip home, Heather went in by the garden gate instead of going straight to the house. She loved the garden in spite of its wild, neglected state—she loved the tall oak trees overhead and the slender bracketed stood like a fairy army amongst all the disorder. It was very silent and restful. The startled chirping of a blackbird soaring up from the undergrowth seemed a tremendous noise, shattering the midday peace.

High noon! ... Heather's thoughts from some forgotten memory of her childhood. A fairy story, in which she had read that high noon was of much greater importance in fairyland than midnight—that it was at high noon that all the world held its breath because great things happened; when flowers whispered together and everything reached its zenith; a golden moment which comes only once in every lifetime. And suddenly Heather thought of the little woman with the vivid blue eyes waiting at Waterloo for a man who would surely never come, and in some strange way she felt that they were skin, two women who had both missed the way—two lonely women.

High noon! ... some hurt corner of Heather's mind whispered to her. "You're 34, and this is your high noon. Make the most of it; it can never come again."

She closed her eyes, feeling a little dazed, and suddenly she found herself weeping.

Was it for the past and for her lost lover? Or for the present, which was made up of hard work and patience and of self-denial. Or for the future, which stretched before her like an empty road along which one cannot hope to meet a friend?

How foolish to cry like this, when for so long she had denied herself the luxury of tears. To cry just because of an old forgotten fairy story—because of a little old woman with blue eyes waiting patiently year after year for a lover who would never return!

High noon, the moment in one's life which can never come again. Heather leaned against the rough bark of a giant tree and sobbed her heart out.

So many thoughts crowded in confusion through her mind. Her youth! She had been robbed of that, and for the first time she realized it and knew it to be a cause for grief. She saw it behind her, a sad ghost with smiling eyes and lips.

Other women were given love, and a home of their own, and children, but for her the road had twisted away from all these things and she could only look back on them and weep. It was the chattering blackbird which at last aroused her by swooping down from his bough, indignantly that his sanctuary should be invaded. Heather turned to watch him with tear-dimmed eyes. The spell was broken.

Caesar, the family, Vilette, Mrs. Priddy, Life! They were all waiting for her to go back to them.

She dried her eyes and anxiously powdered her reddened lids. She would have to slip upstairs to bathe her eyes. Then she saw that the long French windows leading from the seldom-used drawing room were wide open, and inside she could hear voices and laughter.

Vilette! ... oh surely not so soon? She turned to hurry away, but she was too late. A slim dazzling figure flung herself down the steps from the wide open window and flung itself upon her with a scream of joyful recognition.

"My poor lamb! ... don't tell me you've been all the way to Waterloo." Two arms seized and hugged her, as the eager voice went on—"I know I ought to have sent a wire, but of course I didn't. It was such a heaven-sent chance to drive up instead of stewing in a stuffy old train, and it's such a lovely car! ... Are you glad to see me? I'm driving for you to meet him! ... It will be such a thrilling surprise for you, Lamb. I couldn't make him believe it for ages! ... He simply refused to believe that I, I suppose it did seem queer—he broke off, glancing back over her shoulder toward a man who stood at the top of the steps, hesitating to come forward.

Continue Tomorrow.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Some girls don't like to be guided across a street.

Technically, a girl is supposed to take a man's arm if she wants assistance across a street. And if she doesn't take it, after he has offered it, he is supposed to forget it. That's all very well, but there seem to be a great many men around town who don't know the technicalities. And you can't throw a man overboard if he doesn't do the thing. I suppose it didn't read the blue book of etiquette along with Mother Goose.

Sometimes (but this will depend upon your man) you can talk him out of the habit. You can tell him that you like the feeling of independence you get from crossing a street without support. Or you can tell him that his grip is too strong and hurts.

That you'd rather do the gripping.

But with some men it's better to let the whole thing go ... just accept the fact that he is the kind who takes you arm on street corners, and don't worry about it. You can calm yourself, if you are deeply disturbed, by the thought that he does it only because he is fond of you and wants you to get to the other side of the street without mishap. After all, that's worth a lot these days.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

I—THE MIGHTY SAHARA.
The Arabian desert is of great size, and so is the desert region in the southwestern part of the United States, but neither compares with the Sahara, the world's largest desert. The total area of the Sahara has been figured at 3,500,000 square miles, meaning that it is larger than either Canada or the United States.

In the heart of the Sahara are mountains which enjoy several inches of rainfall each year. Little streams trickle down the slopes and join to form the rivers. The rivers, however, come to an end (or at least go underground) after flowing out into the sandy wastes.

Here and there the mighty desert is dotted with green patches known as "oases." These are places supplied with water from springs or wells which rise from underground rivers or lakes.

Wild animals live in some parts, but not in great number. They dwell chiefly in the highlands, and around the oases. Sahara animals include turtles, lizards, chameleons, snakes, and porcupines. Some of the snakes have poisonous bites, and there is one—the python—which is dangerous because it can wrap its thick, strong-muscled body around a man and crush him.

A bird of the Sahara, the rufous warbler, gives warning of snakes by crying out sharply whenever it sees one. Another bird, the yellow barbet, cries loudly after it catches sight of a jackal. Ostriches were fairly common in former times in some parts of the desert, but now they are few and far between.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 73

When Jane had organized her party for the perilous jungle trek, she turned suddenly to Brown. "Lead on, I'll join you soon." Then she hurried back to the abandoned shelters where she left a note describing their accident and the direction they were taking.

By some remote chance a white hunter might find it and follow them along the trail. Perhaps even Tarzan, his beloved mate, might pass this way. Jane shook her head sadly. No, that was too much to hope. Tarzan! Tarzan! If only he were here...

3 JEWEL SHOT TO DEATH

IN PALESTINE TERROR

JERUSALEM, March 14.—(AP)—

North Palestine's rising tide of terrorism claimed more victims today

when three Jewish colonists were shot and killed as they walked between Nazareth and the Sea of Galilee.

The slayings occurred in the same area where two Jewish shepherds were fatally stabbed yesterday.
